Polk Board Supports Use Of Funds

KRESGEVILLE—The president and the secretary of the Polk Township School Board said last night that the board authorized Polk High School Principal Harry Young to use student activity fund money to pay for bus transportation last winter.

James D. Berger, Polk Township supervisor, accused Young of using the students' money to pay transportation bills without the board's permission at a West End Taxpayers' League meeting last Thursday.

Young denied this to The Daily Record. He said Berger inspected the board's books a month or two ago and could have gotten the correct facts if he had wanted them.

Warren Getz, president of the board, and LeRoy Hinton, secretary, said the school board authorized Young to transfer funds from the student account to the transportation fund when bus payments came due.

They said this was necessary because there were not enough tax funds in the treasury to cover the payments, and the state appropriation was overdue.

As principal of the school and thus treasurer of the student fund, Young wrote out a check for $1,313.40 on Jan. 30, and another one for the same amount on Feb. 27, to pay for the bus transportation, they said.

The school board repaid the student fund March 20, Getz and Hinton said.

The school board's only other alternative would have been to pay interest on a bank loan, they said.

Subpoena Issued By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Van Doren, big money winner on a television quiz show, was accused by the chairman of a House investigating committee Monday of dodging an opportunity to say in person whether the show was rigged.

Announcing that a subpoena has been issued to require Van Doren's testimony, Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) declared:

"Mr. Van Doren has purposely avoided service."

Harris also said the committee will stand in recess until Nov. 2, when "we expect him here."

Van Doren sprang to nationwide fame by winning $129,000 on the now-defunct program "Twenty-One" in 1956-57. Other contestants on the show, notably Herbert Stempel who won $19,500, have said they were given answers in advance, and told when to lose.

Telegram

Stempel did not say Van Doren was coached, however, and Van Doren telegraphed the investigating committee a request that his denial of trickery be entered into its record.

Van Doren made his long distance request last Wednesday from his home in New York.

Harris disclosed Monday that the committee sent Van Doren a new invitation on Thursday to testify in person, but has heard nothing from him.

Then, on Friday, a subpoena was issued ordering Van Doren to appear Monday, but it was not served.

"This contestant," Harris told newsmen, "seems to have challenged the committee and the facts which have been developed."

"The undisputed and admitted facts," the chairman said, demonstrate that more than half the "Twenty-One" shows "were rigged and fixed." This is a showing, Harris said, that requires Van Doren, as a big money winner on the program, to tell his story.

Harris said this is a showing that requires Van Doren to tell his story.

Van Doren was an English instructor at Columbia University when "Twenty-One" made him famous. He is still an instructor there, but one of the results of his TV fame was a $30,000-a-year job with the National Broadcasting Co. as a commentator and specialist in education.

NBC suspended him from his job last week, pending the outcome of the congressional investigation.

Monday, Columbia University said that at his request it has given Van Doren a week's leave from his instructing job. He had not shown up for a scheduled class last Friday and was absent again Monday.

Harris said a diligent search by committee staff members and others had failed to locate Van Doren. His residence telephone has been disconnected, for one thing.

Venezuela Smashes Latest Revolutionary Conspiracy Against President, Cabinet

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The government announced Monday it has smashed a revolutionary conspiracy against President Romulo Betancourt, and 40 persons are under arrest. More arrests are expected.

Ramon Velazquez, Betancourt's secretary, said the plotters were followers of deposed dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, who is living in exile in Miami Beach, Fla.

Velazquez said the plotters planned to assassinate Betancourt; Vice President Raul Leon; Adm. Carlos Larrazabal, navy chief; and Gen. Carlos Luis Araque, commander of the National Guard. The guard is Venezuela's national police force.

Series of Bombings

A series of bombings in Caracas was connected with the plot, officials said. Four small bombs exploded in Caracas Friday. Another exploded Sunday at a warehouse owned by Eugenio Mendoza, one of Venezuela's leading industrialists, and still another in front of the home of the brother-in-law of Miguel Angel Capriles, Caracas newspaper publisher. A bomb exploded Monday morning at the studios of the Cultura radio station.

Officials quoted some of those under arrest as saying they had a promise from Gen. Rafael Trujillo, Dominican Republic dictator, to simulate an invasion of Venezuela to further the plotters' campaign.

Police investigators said the leader of the bombing ring was Luis Eduardo Chaiting, government comptroller during the Perez Jimenez regime.

At one point during the morning Poland came within six votes of victory.

Suggestion

At the suggestion of Argentina the Assembly decided to take the 13th vote, then delay additional voting until after disposing of elections to the economic and Social Council and other business.

The Assembly quickly elected Ecuador and Ceylon for two-year terms on the 11-nation Council, then bumped into the deadlock between Turkey and Poland.

Each year the Assembly elects three nonpermanent representatives to the Council, the U.N.'s most powerful political body. The United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and Nationalist China are permanent members.

Most U.N. diplomats took the view that a Turkish defeat would be a blow to the prestige of the United States, which has campaigned vigorously for Turkey.

They recalled that United States support failed to elect the Philippines in a 1955 contest with Yugoslavia that went to 35 inconclusive ballots. The voting was spread over two months. Then the Philippines held the lead. Finally the deadlock was resolved by agreement to split the two-year term.

Four Perish As Fire Sweeps Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The healthy, eight-pound boy born Monday to Virginia Cerda, 25, will never know his half-brother and three half-sisters. They died the day before he was born.

Their lives were claimed by a fire that swept through their apartment early Sunday.

"We will raise another family," Pablo Cerda, 34, the fire victims' stepfather, assured his wife after the tragedy. Cerda is a maintenance man at University Hospital, where his new son and wife were reported doing well.

The young victims' grandfather, Ervin Ben Oliver, was jailed for investigation after officials said they learned he had fallen asleep on a downstairs couch with a lit cigarette.

Firemen said the blaze which spread through the two floor brick apartment originated in the couch.

Oliver is Mrs. Cerda's father. Found dead in a second-floor bedroom were Mona Lisa Martinez, seven; her sisters, Mary Lou, five; and Terri Lee, four; and her brother, Albert, three.

Cold Water On Third Party

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—More cold water was thrown on any idea of a third-party movement Monday as the predominantly Democratic members of the Southern Governors' Conference got down to exchanging views on problems of mutual interest.

Several of the governors were highly critical of National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler, but none echoed South Carolina Gov. Ernest F. Hollings' threat to bolt the Democratic party.

Recent Death

Miss Mary Augusta Witmer, 86, died at Delaware Water Gap, on Sunday at 6 p.m. Page Eight.

Truck Driver Refuses To Relate Story Of New Brunswick Crash Claiming Nine Lives

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—Truck driver Roscoe Poe refused again Monday to tell police anything of the accident which killed nine coeds and a professor.

A trooper and a detective of the state police questioned Poe at his bedside in Middlesex General Hospital.

McDonald Reveals Stand At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Declaring it will not be beaten, the United Steelworkers Union said Monday a court order may force an 80-day truce in the record steel strike "but there will be no permanent peace."

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald told a White House fact-finding panel that at the end of the enforced truce the basic issue would remain unsolved. The basic issue, he said, is "whether the companies will break the union."

His voice swelling to a roar, the white-haired union chief boomed that the Steelworkers "never, and I repeat never" would yield to management's demands. He said these call for elimination of protection for workers against changes in local working conditions as a prerequisite to a wage settlement.

McDonald shouted that such changes—such as the companies say are necessary to cut labor costs—can be imposed "only over our dead bodies."

McDonald and Arthur J. Goldberg, the union's general counsel, were leadoff witnesses as a three-man panel began hearings intended to help President Eisenhower decide whether to seek a strike-halting injunction. The board is under orders to report to Eisenhower by Friday.

Line For Views

Industry spokesmen were in line to give their views to the fact finders after the union had had its say about the increasingly bitter dispute which dragged through its 90th day. The company representatives are expected to state their case Tuesday.

In the past, the companies have accused the unions of demanding pay boosts and other benefits that management argued would threaten new inflation. The steel firms have pledged to resist this, and there was no sign they were ready to back off.

This, together with McDonald's no-retreat stand, pointed to a renewed walkout about New Year's Day even if a federal court order should send the strikers back to the mills for 80 days. McDonald said his union would bow to an injunction, although opposed to it.

The panel's assigned job is to find the facts in the case, but Chairman George W. Taylor had made it clear he planned to try to work out a voluntary agreement. Taylor, an old hand at arranging such settlements, is outspoken in his feelings that a Taft-Hartley injunction only serves to prolong a labor dispute.

Red Press Cuts Silence On 'Figure'

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—The Communist press took notice for the first time Monday of reports that a madonna-like apparition has been seen atop St. Augustine Roman Catholic Church. The story has had Warsaw talking since last Wednesday.

The evening newspaper Express Wiecew broke press silence on the biggest crowd attraction in Warsaw with a light and satirical article.

The newspaper suggested that the apparition was merely a reflection of light or a chemical reaction from the copper-covered steeple.

The apparition was first reported seen last Wednesday. The word spread quickly by grapevine. Thursday watchers saw nothing. But on Friday and Saturday people again claimed to have seen a luminous madonna-like figure on top of the steeple.

Despite newspaper warnings of pickpockets and other pitfalls, thousands of people again turned up to gaze at the church steeple Monday night.

Local Issues To Dominate Election

HARRISBURG (AP)—Heads of both major political parties agree the state's four per cent sales tax will have little effect on the current municipal election campaign. Though it was a major issue in the legislature, John S. Rice, Democratic state chairman, and George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, held it would not be a strong factor in the Nov. 3 election.

The election this year is based primarily on local issues and I doubt if the sales tax is affecting us one way or the other," said the Democratic chairman.

"All reports reaching me indicate that the sales tax is no issue in this campaign," Bloom told the Associated Press.

Sales Tax

The 1959 legislature increased the old three per cent sales tax to three and a half per cent in April and then to four per cent in August. Both Democrats and Republicans in the House and Senate voted for the increases.

Voter interest in the current campaign is apathetic. But the election will be a testing ground for party strength for the presidential election next year when congressional and legislative seats also will be filled.

On a statewide basis, two appellate court places are up for decision by some five million Pennsylvania voters. Party leaders are resigned to a light turnout, however, possibly only 50 per cent.

Both Rice and Bloom predicted victory for their respective candidates but there are indications the fight for the two court seats may be fairly close.

Judge Michael J. Eagen of Lackawanna County won the Democratic nomination for a 21-year term on the Supreme Court over Justice Thomas D. McBride, Philadelphia, in the May primary.

His GOP opponent is Judge Blair F. Gunther of the Superior Court, who also defeated Justice McBride in the primary.

A 10-year seat on the Superior Court is being sought by Judge Harry M. Montgomery of Allegheny County, the Democratic choice, and Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Smethport, House Republican floor leader.

Thousands of municipal offices—ranging from county commissioners down to school directors—will be filled next month.

The biggest spotlight is focused on Philadelphia where Democratic Richardson Dilworth is battling Republican Harold E. Stassen to continue another four years as mayor. Stassen, who lost the GOP gubernatorial nomination last year, is a distinct underdog.

Youth Leaves Girl In Church While He Kills Her Father, 10-Year-Old Sister At Home

L'ANSE, Mich. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy who said he left his girl friend sitting in church while he went and killed her father and younger sister sat dry-eyed and calm in his jail cell Monday, unable to explain the double killing.

"I did it. But I don't know why. That family has been awful good to me," Eugene Paquet of L'Anse told William G. Konstenius, Baraga County prosecutor.

Edward Frosland, 44, a rural L'Anse laborer, and his daughter, Lila Lynn, 10, were slain Sunday night. Frosland was shot in the back of the head. Lila Lynn was clubbed unconscious with a large iron bolt and then strangled with a rope.

Paquet said he watched television for an hour at the Frosland home after the slayings.

Konstenius said Paquet took Shirley Frosland, 16, whom he had dated for about two years, and her sister, Sally, 14, to the L'Anse Baptist church Sunday night, but left them after a little, while saying he felt ill.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Paquet, and the mother of the girls, Lila Frosland, 38, had spent the weekend in Chicago with friends and returned to L'Anse together later in the day. Neighbors said the families had been friends for a long time.

Obtains Weapons

The prosecutor said that after the youth left church he went to his home and picked up a rope, an iron bolt and his father's .22-caliber pistol. Then he drove to the Frosland home.

Lila Lynn was watching television when he arrived and the father was asleep. Konstenius said Paquet joined the girl in watching television and then invited her to his car to see a present he had for her. Once outside, the prosecutor said, Paquet knocked the girl unconscious with the bolt, slipped a rope around her neck and strangled her.

He said the boy then went back into the house. A noise awoke the father and he spoke to the youth for a few minutes. When Frosland turned his head to get a cigarette a bullet was fired into the back of his skull. He died instantly.

The prosecutor said Paquet then went into the living room and watched television until Mrs. Frosland, who had met her daughters at church, returned home with the girls.

He said Paquet told the women what he had done and they called police who took him into custody.

Good Morning!

People who wonder where this younger generation is headed would do well to consider where it came from.

Top Court Grants Plea To Labor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday granted an organized labor plea for review of a lower court ruling which could profoundly affect union membership and political activity.

It also followed a hands-off line on details of school integration cases.

Its refusal to review lower court rulings in school cases had these effects:

1. In Prince Edward County, Va., there remains unchanged a circuit court order for immediate integration which has resulted in school officials closing all public schools.

2. The Norfolk, Va., City Council continues under court injunction not to cut off public school funds.

3. Negroes in Raleigh and Montgomery counties, N.C., are prevented from speeding up the desegregation which is proceeding piecemeal under a state pupil assignment law.

The court agreed unanimously to review a decision of the Georgia Supreme Court that compulsory union membership is unconstitutional if the union uses political activity any of the dues collected.

Six Employees

The case was brought in Macon, Ga., by six employees of the Southern Railway System who were required to join unions under a union shop agreement which calls for such membership after 60 days of employment.

In the Prince Edward case, Virginia unsuccessfully sought reinstatement of a U.S. district court order giving the county until 1965 to begin integration. The U.S. circuit court at Richmond reversed it and ordered desegregation to begin in September 1959.

Rather than accept this decision, the county closed all its three high schools and 18 elementary schools. Most of its 1,500-plus white school-age children are now in privately operated schools but there has been no general provision for the more than 1,700 Negro children.

The Norfolk City Council tried unsuccessfully to have the high court hear an appeal from a U.S. district court order, later affirmed by the circuit court, that the Council had no right to cut off funds for all Norfolk schools above the sixth grade.

The Council tried this as Virginia's massive resistance to integration collapsed. As a result of the court order, all schools closed under the resistance program reopened last February and there was limited integration.

Ike To Turn Earth For New Library

ABLENE, Kan. (AP)—President Eisenhower returns to his old home town today to turn the first spadeful of earth for the Eisenhower Presidential Library.

He will use the occasion to make a policy address reportedly covering the need for free nations to help underdeveloped countries.

Special Train

A special train was to arrive Monday night with some of the most prominent names in American business—personal friends of the President and those who are helping raise the three million dollars to build the library.

Heading the delegation was Benjamin Fairless, retired board chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp. and now chairman of the board of the Governors' National Committee for the Library.

Pennsylvania Figures

Democrats Opposed Eisenhower's Projects

By Congressional Quarterly
Washington—In 1959, for the first time since President Eisenhower entered the White House in 1953, Democrats in Congress opposed him more often than they supported him.

This was the major finding of Congressional Quarterly's annual study of Presidential Support, based on the "yes" and "no" votes of all members of Congress on 175 roll calls in the Senate and House that presented clear-cut tests of support for Eisenhower's program.

On these test votes Democrats collectively scored 39 percent in support of the President's position, and 51 percent in opposition to it. Republicans as a group backed their chief executive 70 percent of the time, opposed him 20 percent of the time. (Failures to vote accounted for the remaining 19 percent in both instances).

The contrast between the two groups was even sharper on those roll calls involving questions of domestic policy, accounting for 137 of the 175 test votes. Here the composite scores for all Democrats were 34 percent support, 57 percent opposition for all Republicans, 71 percent support, 19 percent opposition.

In the realm of foreign policy, the President was supported by both groups, on the average, on two of every three of the 38 test votes. Making up these averages, however, were substantially different scores in Senate and House. On foreign policy roll calls, Senate Republicans topped Democrats in backing the President's stand, 70 percent to 14 percent. But in the House, Democrats led Republicans, 68 percent to 27 percent.

Margin of Victory—President Eisenhower's views prevailed on 91 of the 175 test votes, or 50 percent of the time—his lowest margin of victory since entering office. This was directly traceable to the 2-to-1 majorities held by Democrats in the 86th Congress. Thus when a majority of Democrats opposed his stand while a majority of Republicans supported it has happened on 70 of his 84 test-vote defeats—the outcome hinged on the disproportionate strength of the Democrats.

Actually, the President fared considerably better at the hands of Congress in 1959 than his margin of victory on test roll calls suggests.

On housing legislation, for example, one dozen defeats on test votes were subsequently wiped out when the President by vetoing two bills in succession, persuaded the legislators to give him a measure more to his liking. All told, perhaps one-half of his test-vote defeats were nullified or sharply modified by later developments.

Underlining the sharp conflict between Democrats and the President in 1959 was the fact only eight of the 175 test roll calls found a majority of Democrats supporting his position while a majority of Republicans were opposed.

Of these, three involved major issues: Senate passage of a bill, which he favored, giving him discretion in granting aid to Communist satellites in Eastern Europe, and two House votes on a measure, which the President opposed, revising the doctrine of Federal preemption.

Individual Scores—No member of Congress voted either with or against the President on all of the test roll calls for 1959. Among Senate Republicans, Prescott Bush (Conn.) led in Eisenhower support with 91 percent, while William Langer (N. D.) was high man in Eisenhower opposition with 58 percent. On the Democratic side, Sen. Frank J. Lausche (Ohio) voted with the President 83 percent of the time; honors for highest opposition score (75 percent) went to Sen. Olin D. Johnston, S. C.).

Sen. Joseph Clark (D-Pa.) backed the President on 42 percent of the 121 test roll calls in the Senate in 1959, and opposed him on 53 percent. His support and opposition scores on the 92 test votes concerning domestic policy were 28 percent and 67 percent, respectively. On the 29 roll calls involving foreign policy, he scored 87 percent for support, seven percent for opposition.

On the same test votes, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) scored 77 percent for over-all support of the President's position, and 21 percent for opposition. His scores on domestic issues alone were 72 percent support and 26 percent opposition. On foreign policy questions, he scored 93 percent support, three percent in opposition.

In the House, Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) voted with the President on 48 percent of the 54 test roll calls of 1959, and against on 35 percent. For the 45 test votes involving domestic issues, he scored 40 percent for support, 42 percent for opposition. His showing on nine test votes concerning foreign policy was 89 percent support of the President's position and never in opposition.

The average life-span is now more than the biblical three score and ten. But, average means that some people will live to be more than a hundred and others, unfortunately, will not be so privileged.

Modern research has discovered that early treatment of any disease, before it ravages the body, can add years to life. If you depend less on self-treatments and visit your physicians at the very first symptoms of an illness, the odds are you will live a longer, healthier life.

Partial Action Listed For Congress

(Editor's Note—Following the adjournment of the Third Session of the 86th Congress, staff writers for Congressional Quarterly prepared a review of legislative accomplishments. It is divided into three categories: action completed, partial action and no action. The third and final installment, which follows, is a review of bills on which partial action was taken.)

PARTIAL ACTION

Aid To Satellites—The Senate Sept. 12 passed and sent to the House a bill (S 1697) amending the so-called Battle Act to permit the President, when he decides it is "important to the security of the United States," to extend economic and financial assistance to Communist countries except Russia and those in the Far East. The bill was endorsed by the State Department as a move that would give the U. S. more "flexibility" in its relations with European Communist satellites.

Chicago Water Diversion—The Senate Sept. 2, by a 54-34 roll-call vote, sent to its Foreign Relations Committee for further study a House-passed bill (HR 1) authorizing a one-year trial diversion of additional water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois Waterway and a three-year study of the Chicago sanitary system.

Civil Rights—After a year of controversy, Congress prepared to leave the civil rights field for 1959 by extending the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years, to Nov. 8, 1961. Senate civil rights proponents Sept. 14 obtained commitments from the leadership of both parties for continued work on the bill.

Nasser Makes Offer To U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic has offered to have a U. N. Commission carry out all Palestine resolutions, including one for unrestricted Suez Canal shipping. The Israeli reaction recently was skeptical.

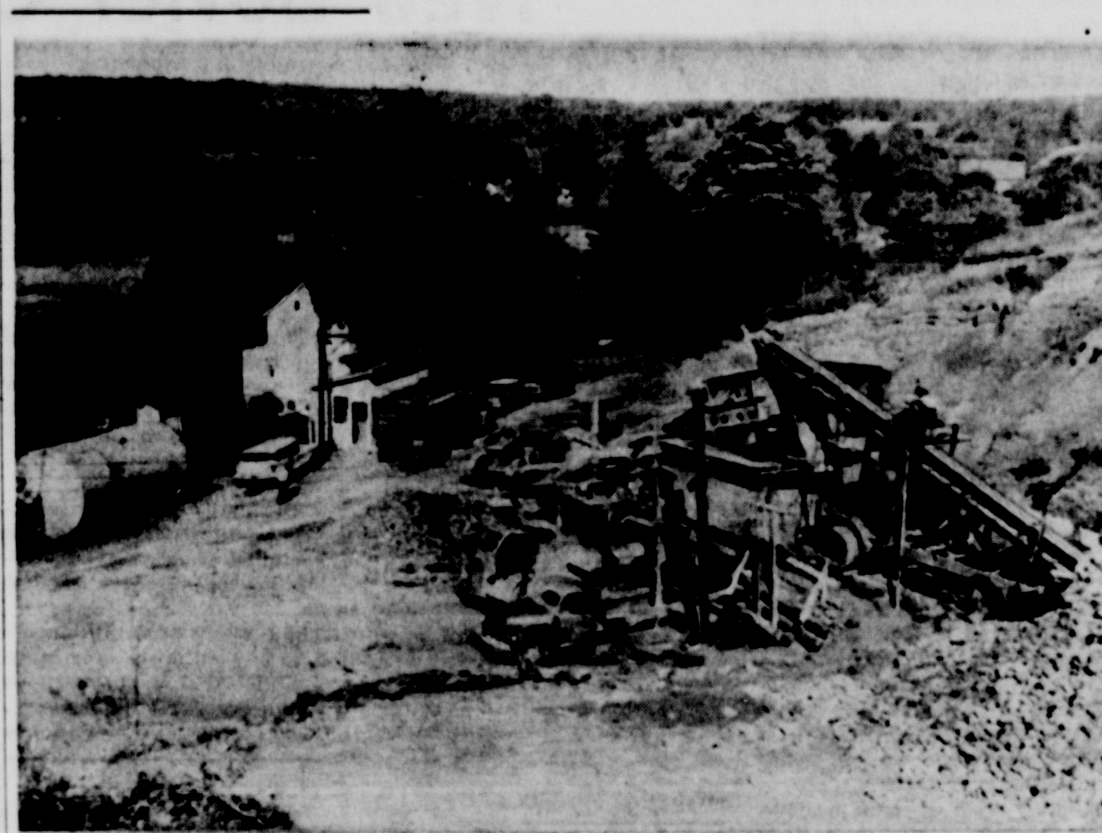

Nasser put forward his proposal, Cairo dispatches said, in an interview Wednesday with the Associated Press and the Christian Science Monitor.

Red China Drives To Goal

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—"Never before have so many millions of human beings been driven to such monumental tasks to accomplish the will of such an autocrat."

That's the opinion Jane Huckvale, Canadian newspaperwoman, has of Red China after spending 18 days there. She came here to contrast conditions on this Chinese Nationalist island with those on the Communist mainland.

Gravel Pit Operation Listed Among New Area Industries

WHEN A ROAD CONTRACTOR and a trucker get together, what do they do? They form a 50-50 partnership called Pocono Industries, Inc., and sell natural sand, both for concrete and masonry, and three sizes of washed gravel.

This is the story behind one of Monroe County's newer industries. A year ago John R. Lesoine, who runs his own trucking company on W. Main St., Stroudsburg, and Granville Shiffer, who lives in Stroudsburg and builds roads, got together.

They are now doing a large business at their gravel pit located one quarter mile off Route 209, two and a half miles west of Stroudsburg.

The pit is a four-man operation which can turn out 400 tons a day. Two front-end loaders dig the gravel out of the hillside.

The washing process requires 450 gallons of water a minute. After screening, the different size materials are stock-piled.

Natural Sand
"This is the only plant in Monroe County which produces natural sand that meets the specifications of the State Department of Highways," Lesoine said.

The firm has already supplied materials for the new Interboro Bridge between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and will provide natural stone and roof material for the new high school under construction at East Stroudsburg. Within the last few months the firm has successfully bid jobs in Berks, Luzerne, Monroe and Pike counties.

Lesoine and Shiffer do all this business with only a scale house, a scales, a pump house, screens and conveyors and, of course, a hill of gravel and sand. The plant is open from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. six days a week and at other times by appointment.

Two People Save Premier

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi authorities permitted the broadcasting recently a report that Premier Abdel Karim Kassem escaped with his life because a boy and a cab driver threw themselves between him and assassins' machine guns in Baghdad.

The report was broadcast by Baghdad radio as Iraqi military officials kept the capital under dusk-to-dawn curfew in an effort to track down the assassins.

Ruling Hits Machines

The lowly pinball machine has become increasingly popular in the last quarter century, first as an amusement device and subsequently for gambling purposes as well.

It came into its own as a gambling device within the last 10 to 15 years after a state crackdown greatly reduced the number of slot machines. It also became much more complicated.

Free plays could be accumulated, certain points could be saved for the next play and additional coins could be inserted to increase the value of the game. At the same time signs "for amusement only" were placed on many of the machines.

Most pinball machines were included in the $10 tax on coin-operated amusement devices. Now all that has changed, for the Internal Revenue Service has ruled the complicated pinball machines carry a tax of $250.

The Supreme Court has given a decision supporting the special tax despite the amusement only signs and notwithstanding the fact that the evidence fails to disclose the actual use of such devices for gambling purposes.

The court held that "where a pinball machine is equipped with a push button or other device for registering the plays so released, or with a provision for multiple coin insertion for increasing odds, such equipment is considered prima facie evidence that the machine is being maintained for gambling purposes."

The Supreme Court decision seemingly opens the door for police action, too. That part about such machines being prima facie evidence that they are being maintained is the key to eliminating them.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Your Health's At Stake

In releasing a list of "fraudulent" reducing devices and drugs, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming has done the Nation a double service.

First, he has reminded our weight watchers that the only device that's guaranteed effective in the cure of obesity is a well-watched diet. This is a truism to which anyone who has fought a personal battle of the bulge can attest.

Second, he has reminded all of our citizens—fat, lean or just right—that the Food and Drug Administration has been under-staffed and that a recently increased appropriation should add to its corps of inspectors.

This is a government agency that gets far too little attention from Americans. It is charged not only with guarding against fraud in the advertising of food and drug products, but with assuring the safety of all such products.

In this latter area, there has been quite a bit of criticism in recent years, a good deal of it from people whose remarks in the health field warrant careful consideration.

We have heard all sorts of conflicting claims about the danger of dyes used to color oranges, the risk of food preservatives that haven't been carefully researched for their long-range effect on humans, the cancer-causing agents that may exist in some forms of wax food containers and similar "dangers" many believe to exist.

Any such conflicts should be cleared up by the staff of inspectors and researchers who should be impartial. If there are any pressures on the agency by food processors or any other group, this warrants even closer congressional attention than similar pressures against the Defense Department or the FCC. The lag in effectively getting suspected items off the market or in getting fraudulent advertising claims changed should be ended. If it takes a larger staff with better facilities to properly do the job, then the needed funds should be voted.

If good health makes good sense, it is foolish to allow the Food and Drug Administration either to operate at less than peak efficiency or to become ensnared in any bureaucratic bungling or outside pressures that impair its impartiality.—Harrisburg Evening News

The Pennsylvania Story

Day For Decision

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Tuesday, Oct. 13 — a somewhat auspicious date from the numerical standpoint but unquestionably a suspicious from quite another standpoint if a scheduled hammered out over the week end holds firm.

Item. Today Pennsylvania's lawmakers return to their desks following last week's recess. Oct. 13 may truly turn out to be an unlucky day — or it may not, depending for the most part upon which way the legislative straws blow today.

Item. Today is the day — and this is the basic reason for the auspiciousness of the date — that Pennsylvania's lawmakers are scheduled to receive a joint House-Senate Conference Committee report and recommendations concerning Pennsylvania's rattled, deadlocked and heretofore poleis-apart fiscal session.

Item. What happens today on the conference committee report will signal either the beginning of a definitely horns-locked legislative session of indefinite duration, or a pell-mell rush to close out the current session, already second longest on record.

Today the findings and recommendations of the House-Senate Conference Committee are scheduled to be presented to the Republican and Democratic caucuses. If both approve the recommendations, the end of the 1959 session is around the corner.

If either caucus disagrees or refuses to concur in the conference committee recommendations, a serious deadlock on Pennsylvania's legislative front is in the offing.

This in a nutshell is the importance of today on Capitol Hill.

Republican lawmakers in control of the Senate have insisted that some $58 million be clipped from the Democratic Lawrence Administration budget.

Administration Democrats on the other hand and incidentally in control of the House of Representatives have been hammering for restoration of the budget cuts already cleared by the GOP-controlled Senate.

Hence the conference committee effort to iron out the differences.

Also there is the question, should House and Senate Republican and Democratic blocs accept the recommendations of committee whether Governor Lawrence would be agreeable and go along with the recommendations as the best obtainable under the circumstances.

It is generally believed on Capitol Hill that Mr. Lawrence will — on a better-than-nothing-else basis — fall in line with the suggestions of his own legislative lieutenants. Up to this point there have been some bitter recriminations cast by legislative leaders on both sides of the political aisle.

Anti-administration Republicans for example insisted that the cuts remain intact, vowing they would not budge. Administration stalwarts on the other hand have insisted with equal force that the cuts be restored.

Mr. Lawrence has vowed his determination to wind up with a "balanced" budget — cutting hard and fast if his appropriation requests are clipped; meaning that he will not resort to inflated tax estimates (deficit financing) to produce "ghost revenue."

Today — Oct. 13 — may be an unlucky date but it may also be an auspicious day!

Touche—Again!

Simple Electric Light

On Oct. 21, the 80th anniversary of the development of the first successful incandescent light bulb will take place.

It is, for this generation, a slight matter. We have everything — electric lights of all sizes, shapes, dimensions and colors; we have motion pictures and television and late shows and we even take our own motion pictures. But when Thomas Edison set to work, none of these things existed in all the world.

Edison was a backward child, so backward that he was taken out of school. This is a startling fact because it is too often assumed that backward children are retarded children. When the Europeans decided to make secondary education free, they did not make this mistake. They did not confuse equal educational opportunity with identical education for all in a comprehensive school, as did our educationists.

As things stand, those of our youngsters who want to become professional people receive a meager general education in high school and must make up for it in college.

Jaycees May Be Holding Record

The Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce may be holding a national record for attendance at the present time.

Last week end the Jaycees brought the "Town and Atom" demonstration to the area.

The demonstration, presented by the Museum Division of the Institute of Nuclear Studies visited Stroud Union and East Stroudsburg High School and the Stroud Shopping Center on Friday. A total of 500 area people visited the display on this day.

On Saturday the "Town and Atom" display became a part of "Sidewalk Days" and was parked in front of the Wyckoff Department Store. A total of 2280 persons toured the inside of the display on this date.

The Jaycees reported that members of the "Town and Atom" display revealed that the national average daily attendance was only 400.

During two recent days in Wilkes-Barre, 300 persons visited the exhibition one day and 600 the next.

Yes, the Pocono Mountains Jaycees could very easily be holding a national record.

Billy Cokerly, of Pocono Manor, is currently studying horticulture at the State University Institute of Cobleskill, N.Y.

He is a second year or student in the agriculture division and plans to complete requirements by next June. At this time he will acquire a degree of Associate in Applied Science.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Cokerly.

Rev. Norman Savage, of the East Stroudsburg Baptist Church, preached one of the most "alarming" sermons of his career on Sunday.

Rev. Savage, so we're told, has a clock hidden on the pulpit to time his sermons and some mysterious person set the alarm for noon.

The minister calmly walked over, shut off the alarm, and continued the sermon on over-time.

He did it all without missing a word.

Army Pvt. Robert V. Triola, 21, son of Mrs. Frances M. Jurgens, Canadensis, completed the 37-week Nike-Ajax fire control system maintenance course recently.

The course was given at the Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Tex.

Triola was trained in basic electricity, electronics and specialized subjects relating to the employment, operation, adjustment and maintenance of the Nike-Ajax fire control system and associated equipment.

He entered the Army in September 1958 and completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

A 1955 graduate of Barrett High School, Canadensis, Triola is a 1958 graduate of Temple University.

New Soviet Offer

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Russia is making the highest offer yet to settle its World War II lend-lease debt.

The new offer is $400 million — exactly half of what the U.S. last proposed in these 14-year-old negotiations.

Khrushchev immediately expressed willingness to reopen the stalled lend-lease negotiations, and promised to do that soon.

The Soviet's $400 million offer, to be paid over 10 or more years, is $100 million more than its last previous proposal.

The original lend-lease

Gromyko on expanding trade with this country, Secretary Herter stressed that a prior condition is settling the long-standing lend-lease debt. The State Department chief pointed out this is mandatory under the Johnson Act, passed years ago, which bars credits to a nation in default to the U.S. government.

"Unless you meet this legal requirement," said Herter, "our hands are tied. The law is the law, and we have no intention of violating or circumventing it. I'm sure you wouldn't want us to."

Have Confidence, Lad

Dear Abby: I am a boy of 16 who is going with a real cool girl who is 15. But I am a afraid to kiss her.

The reason I'm afraid to kiss her is because I kissed her once and she told me I should take kissing lessons.

I don't know if she was serious or not because I have kissed a few other girls and none of them ever complained. Do boys ever need kissing lessons or is this girl expecting too much?

NEEDING LESSONS
Dear Needing: Does a duck need swimming lessons? There is usually more honest affection in an amateurish misfired kiss on the nose than in the cultivated technique of the experienced lover.

Dear Abby: Would you please reprint a letter signed TOO LATE that you had in your column last winter? It changed my way of living. Abby, and I bless you for it. Perhaps it will do for someone else what it has done for me.

SAW THE LIGHT
Dear Saw: With pleasure: here it is:

Dear Abby: I am the most broken-hearted person on earth. I always found time to go everywhere else but to see my dear old gray-haired parents. They sat home alone, loving me just the same. It is too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give. And now when I go to visit their graves and look at the green grass above them I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches I must have caused them. I pray that you will print this, Abby, to tell those who still have parents to visit them and show their love and respect while there is still time. For it is later than you think.

TOO LATE
Dear Abby: I have just broken my engagement and want to know what things I positively have to give back. He gave me a hope chest, a clock radio, a wrist watch and an engagement ring. I know that possession is nine-tenths of the law and am wondering if maybe I am not entitled to keep everything. I broke the engagement, but the feeling is mutual.

BROKEN ENGAGEMENT
Dear Broken: Possession may be nine-tenths of the law, but it's the other one-tenth that could get you into trouble. You must return his engagement ring. And if I were you, I'd pile all the other items into the hope chest and return them, too — since there is no hope.

Dear Abby: How do I introduce my mother-in-law to friends and neighbors? Do I say, "This is Jane Smith," or "Joe's mother," or "This is my mother-in-law?"

STUMPED
Dear Stumped: You should say, "I'd like you to know my mother-in-law, (or Joe's mother), Mrs. Joan Smith."

Confidential To "Not Popular": Go to your public (or school) library and get "Dickens' Great Expectations." Here is a story (very much like your own) of a young person who grows into a complete snob before he realizes what he has done to himself.

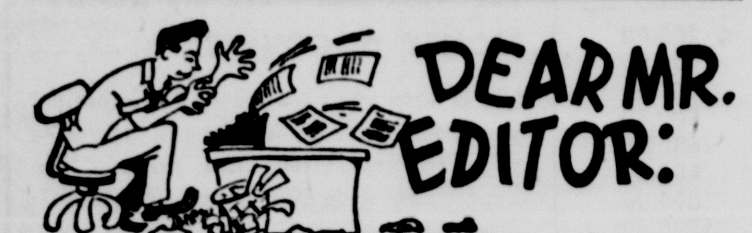

What's your problem? For a person at reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Try and Stop Me—by Bennett Cerf

Lyricist Ira Gershwin once was importuned by a Wall Street customers' man to take a big position in an improved mining stock. "It doesn't look safe to me," demurred Gershwin. "Ira," the Wall Street man assured him earnestly, "you'll make so much money on this stock, you'll go broke!"

The fellow who used to dream up names for new Pullman cars must have switched his activities this year to chorus girls and models. Popping up in Broadway agencies recently have been such lovely creatures as Berthe Day Suit, Eyeful Tower, Zsa Zsa Ginsberg, and Tutu Divine.

A Detroit man noticed a road sign on the island of Nantucket that read, "two miles to Nobadeer Field." Why is that field named Nobadeer?" he asked his driver. "The Indians named it," the driver explained. "Nobadeer is Indian for airport."

Cites Omission

Dear Editor:

On Saturday, I came from Bangor with my four children and my niece and nephew and went to the Sherman Theater to see Sally Starr.

Posters all through Bangor and also advertisements in your paper did not show any advance in the prices—which they always put in if the movies cost more. Why wasn't it put in for this show?

I saw many children who had to go back home. They were very disappointed and I think it's terrible. How many children who expected to pay the regular price had 35 cents extra to spend?

I think this should be brought to the people's attention. Usual admission for Saturday afternoon matinee is 25 cents. Today it was 60 cents for children. If I had known it was that much I would have stayed in Bangor.

Just Between Us —

—by Bobby Westbrook

If some families were a little mystified last night when Mother glided into the room, stood erect in front of her chair, slid one foot back until the leg touched the chair, and then sank gracefully down, face up and looking eager — they can relax — she was just practicing glamour as exhibited at the Woman's Club luncheon.

Actually, it was rather fun, and everybody seemed to enjoy it thoroughly. And Mrs. Sherwood did an excellent job of warming up an audience which might have been critical. She was in somewhat of a spot — billed in advance as a woman of charm, grace and glamour.

That's hard to live up to — like introducing the family wit: "Johnny is the most amusing child in the world — to say something amusing, Johnny." Ike Miller helped by keeping her introduction short and sweet, but the implication of the title was there: "Glamour After Forty?" — Be glamorous, we dare you!

And she was. However, there is one point at which a lot of us might take issue: the bifocals. She'd just rather not see. Which might be all right, if you've a devoted escort to order a dinner for you, but in a rush hour the waitress might not appreciate having to list the specials, and guess how far I'd get having the editorial staff looking up my telephone numbers for me.

And you may look glamorous as all get-out walking with charm and grace down Main Street without your glasses, but you're not going to win friends by walking right by without recognizing them at all. And while a lorgnette may be amusing in New York, it's liable to be hysterical here.

However, the Woman's Club members looked as glamorous as possible — though somehow the hats, although becoming, were rather more conservative than usual. However, the weather was just right for dressing up for Fall and everybody's spirits seemed to rise with each degree drop in temperature.

Glamour After Forty Worth The Effort, Speaker Tells Woman's Club Luncheon

"Charm may be an inborn quality but the techniques of glamour can be learned," Mrs. Margaret Sherwood assured her audience yesterday at the opening luncheon of the Women's Club of the Stroudsburgs at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Speaking on "Glamour After Forty," Mrs. Sherwood, herself the grandmother of seven, pointed out that glamour was not a matter of youth (Lynn Fontaine, one of the most glamorous women, is 74) or of beauty. "Glamour is pure, unadulterated, double distilled femininity," she said, "and its techniques can be learned."

Bi-focals and the attitudes that come with them were mimicked by Mrs. Sherwood who also demonstrated the right and the wrong way to sit down, to walk and to meet people.

She urged the women to spend time and money on themselves as well as on their children.

"It takes a selfish mother to produce unselfish children," she said.

She also urged women to work before their mirrors to correct the "dead-pan" which is deadly to glamour and to practice self-discipline in avoiding nervous habits.

"All motions should be deliberate," she said. "Walk with direction. Use gestures that mean something."

Cosmetics, millinery and jewelry may add to glamour, but only after inner self-discipline and self-control have given them a framework, she said. "Glamour takes time, but it's worth it," she testified.

Mrs. Sherwood used personal anecdotes and mimicry to make her points, and ended by trying on various types of hats.

Meals For Millions She was introduced by Mrs. Robert Miller, program chairman, following the luncheon. Mrs. Claude Leister appealed for donations to "Meals for Millions," explaining the three-cent meals possible through the program. The sum of $31.60 was donated for that purpose.

Partial Action On Bills

separation of additional measures early in the 1960 session. The House Judiciary Committee reported a general civil rights bill (HR 8601) Aug. 20, 1959, while a "skeleton" bill cleared by the Senate Judiciary Constitutional Rights Subcommittee remained mired in the parent Judiciary Committee.

Depressed Areas—Stalled in the House Rules Committee was a Senate-passed bill (S 722) authorizing a program of Federal aid for economically depressed areas in the U. S. By a 49-46 roll-call vote, March 23, the Senate authorized $389.5 million for rural and industrial redevelopment. The House Banking and Currency Committee scaled the Senate bill down to $251 million in an effort to forestall a veto. The Rules Committee blocked further action.

District of Columbia Home Rule—The Senate July 15 passed and sent to the House a bill (S 1681) to provide for an elected mayor, city council and non-voting delegate to the House of Representatives for the District of Columbia. It was the fifth home rule bill passed by the Senate since 1949. In the House, a motion to discharge the District of Columbia Committee from further consideration of home rule legislation had gathered only 120 of the 219 needed signatures as of Sept. 9. The House has blocked all previous home rule moves. The Senate Judiciary Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee Sept. 11 ordered reported a proposed amendment to the Constitution (S J Res 138) to allow D. C. residents to vote for President and Vice President and elect as many Delegates to the House as they would be entitled to if the District were a state.

Fair Trade—The House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee June 9 reported a bill (HR 1253—H Rept 467) establishing a Federal fair trade law, but it did not reach the floor. A Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce subcommittee held hearings on a similar bill (S 1083) but July 22 postponed action until 1960.

Federal Judgeships—The Senate Judiciary Committee Sept. 10 reported a bill (S 2673—S Rept 997) creating three new Federal court of appeals judgeships and 22 new Federal district judgeships. The President had asked for creation of 45 new judgeships and had promised to appoint Democrats to half of them. There was no House action, and final passage in 1959 was in doubt. In action on nominations, the Senate Judiciary Committee Sept. 10 approved three more Eisenhower-appointed judges, bringing the total approved by the Committee (which had been criticized for slow action on judicial nominations) to 30 of the 36 nominated. Of these, 24 had been confirmed by the Senate through Sept. 12. (Weekly Report p. 1256).

Foreign Investment—A bill (HR 5) authorizing tax incentives to spur private overseas investment was the subject of hearings by the House Ways and Means Committee in 1959. The Committee Aug. 19 reached substantial agreement on the provisions of the bill, but it was not formally reported.

Health For Peace—Chairman Oren Harris (D Ark.) of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee Aug. 28 said the Committee would not act in 1959 on a proposal (S J Res 41) for a "Health for Peace" program of international medical research, with a $50 million annual authorization. The measure, sponsored by Sen. Lister Hill (D Ala.), and 63 others, passed the Senate May 20. Harris said the Committee's decision to postpone action was in keeping with its policy to take up only emergency legislation during the closing days of the 1959 session.

Health Insurance For Aged—The House Ways and Means Committee July 13-17 held hearings on the proposal (HR 4700) of Rep. Alvin J. Forand (D R. I.) to have the Federal Government pay for health insurance for everyone eligible to receive social security benefits, but no action was taken on the Forand bill in either chamber.

Minimum Wage—Still bottled up in the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee as session's end was a bill (S 1046) to raise the existing $1-an-hour Federal minimum wage to $1.25 and to bring 10 million additional workers under the Fair Labor Standards Act. The bill, sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D Mass.), was approved by Kennedy's Labor Subcommittee July 10. President Eisenhower told a July 15 news conference that he agreed with Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell that such legislation would be inflationary.

Mutual Security—Final action on the fiscal 1960 mutual security appropriations bill (HR 8385) was held up while the Senate debated a rider to the bill extending the life of the Federal Civil Rights Commission for two years, to Nov. 8, 1961. (See above). The President initially asked for $3,929,995,000 for mutual security in fiscal 1960; he later requested an additional $500 million in advance for use by the Development Loan Fund in fiscal 1961 (this was to be included in the 1960 bill). The House July 29 appropriated $3,186,500,000, disallowing the $500 million request for the DLF for fiscal 1961. The Senate Appropriations Committee reported the bill Sept. 8 (S Rept 981), carrying $3,281,813,000. Debate during the day centered on the military assistance appropriation, and on a provision in the House bill (cut out by the Senate Appropriations Committee but expected to be proposed on the Senate floor) requiring the International Cooperation Administration to tell Congress how much aid it gave each individual foreign country. Chief cuts made by the House from the President's requests: military assistance cut from $1.6 billion to $1.3 billion; defense support cut from $835 million to $700 million; DLF cut from $700 million to $550 million; special assistance cut from $272 million to $200 million; President's contingency fund cut from $200 million to $155 million; and technical assistance cut from $211 million to $181.5 million.

Passports—The House Sept. 8 approved a passport bill (HR 9069) allowing the President to declare various geographic areas off-limits for travel by U. S. nationals, and giving the State Department power to deny passports to Communists and sympathizers whose presence abroad would harm U. S. security. An omnibus Senate Internal Security bill (S 2652) with similar passport provisions was not expected to reach the floor.

Poll Tax—The Senate Judiciary Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee, Sept. 2 ordered reported a proposed constitutional amendment (S J Res 126) to bar the poll tax as a requirement for voting in elections for Federal office. No further action was taken on the resolution, which was sponsored by 67 Senators.

Subversion, Court Curbs—The Senate and House in 1959 reported bills (S 8, HR 22) to provide Federal aid for public school construction, but neither measure reached the floor. The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee Sept. 12 reported (S Rept 1011) S. 8, to provide $1 billion in matching grants for school construction over two years. The House Education and Labor Committee June 8 reported (H Rept 447) HR 22, to provide $4.4 billion over four years for both school construction and teachers' salaries. No matching funds were required. The measure was stuck in the House Rules Committee.

Self-Employed Retirement—The House March 16 passed a bill (HR 10) that would give tax incentives to self-employed persons to establish their own retirement funds. They would be permitted by the bill to defer until retirement payment of income taxes on limited portions of their income they put into an individual retirement fund. The Senate Finance Committee held hearings on the bill, but took no further action.

Subversion, Court Curbs—The House June 24 passed the "states' rights" bill (HR 3) limiting the right of the U. S. Supreme Court to strike down state laws under the Federal preemption doctrine, and giving the states power to enforce state laws punishing sedition against the Federal Government. The Senate Judiciary Internal Security Subcommittee held hearings on HR 3 in April and May, but took no action. Another anti-subversion bill (HR 2369), dealing with the Smith Act definition of "organizing" a conspiracy to advocate violent overthrow of the Government, was passed by the House March 2. A provision corresponding to HR 2369 was included in an omnibus internal security bill (S 2652) approved by the Internal Security Subcommittee Sept. 7, but S 2652 was not expected to reach the floor in 1959.

Third-Term Amendment—The Senate Judiciary Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee Sept. 1 approved a proposed constitutional amendment (S J Res 11) to repeal the 22nd Amendment, which limited a President to two terms in office. The President opposed the measure.

Unemployment Benefits—The House Ways and Means Committee conducted a long study of unemployment compensation legislation, but reported no new measures. A measure extending the Temporary Unemployment Compensation Act of 1958 to July 1, 1959, was signed into law (PL 7) March 31.

Unemployment - Economic Stability—The Senate Sept. 12 carried through S Res 196 a nine-member Special Committee on Unemployment Problems to investigate unemployment and report its findings and recommendations to the Senate by next Jan. 31. It was given a $100,000 budget. The Senate April 10 had passed a bill (S 1631) to set up an 11-member commission for the same purpose, but it received no consideration in the House.

Veterans' Readjustment Benefits—House action on a Senate-passed bill (S 1138) to extend the Korean "GI bill of rights" to peacetime veterans was postponed until 1960 because of a possible Presidential veto. The bill, as passed by the Senate July 21, would qualify post-Korean veterans for the same home-loan benefits that served on active duty during the Korean conflict. The cutoff date for the old training program (PL 550, 82nd Congress) was Jan. 31, 1955.

Wheat and Tobacco—President Eisenhower June 25 vetoed bills (S 1968, 1901) that would have provided a new, temporary, wheat price support program and a price stabilization program for tobacco. In his veto message, the President said the measure, by increasing from 75 percent to 90 percent wheat price supports in return for a 25 percent acreage reduction, would return "to the discredited, high, rigid price supports, (and) would hasten the complete collapse of the entire wheat program." In the tobacco veto message, Mr. Eisenhower said S 1901, though it "might slow down the rate" of the loss of foreign markets, losses. In the case of both crops, the President had requested programs that would provide for lower price supports and less production control. Although the House Agriculture Committee, following the President's vetoes, began new hearings on general farm legislation and Senate leaders as late as the end of July voiced hope that a compromise farm bill could still be enacted during the current session, no new major farm legislation became law in 1959.

Service Station Burglary Reported In East Borough

THE AMOCO Service Station on North Courtland St., in East Stroudsburg, was robbed some time during the weekend, the owner, Harvey A. Benning, reported to East Stroudsburg Police.

Benning said he felt ill Saturday afternoon and went to his home and did not return to the station until Monday morning. He went to the pump to get gas for his car, then entered the office and found thieves had entered and ransacked the building.

Approximate Loss
Benning said approximately $250 in change, plus an undetermined amount of tax money was taken.

After unsuccessfully jimmying at a set of double doors, the burglars then broke a window in the rear and kicked out a screen. Once inside the building the thieves forced a door to enter the office where the money was kept.

East Stroudsburg Police are continuing their investigation.

The 1960 convention will be held at Pocono Manor in mid-October, Keiper reported. Among the other highlights of the four-day sessions was a discussion of Senate Bill 1112, which would repeal the four percent sales tax on laundry and dry cleaning services. The measure, which has passed second reading in the upper chamber, is supported by the association.

Keiper was accompanied to the convention by his brother, Howard L. Keiper, Jr., vice-president of Keiper's, and by the latter's wife.

3 3/4% INTEREST ON NEW U.S. SAVINGS BONDS NOW IN EFFECT

Congress makes the Bonds you buy and Bonds you already own better than ever!

Now U.S. Savings Bonds are a better buy than ever in three important ways:

- All Series E and H Bonds bought since June 1, 1959 now earn 3 3/4% interest when held to maturity.
- Older Bonds will also pay more—an extra 1/2%, from June 1 on, if you hold them to maturity.
- All Series E Bonds, old or new, now carry an automatic extension privilege; they'll keep paying liberal interest for 10 years beyond maturity.

Three big new dollar benefits that make it smart to buy new Bonds—and hang on to the ones you have!

40 million Americans now own Bonds

But a good return isn't the only reason so many people buy Bonds. They've discovered that there's no easier, safer, more American way to save.

You can buy Bonds automatically, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work; you can buy them where you bank; your youngsters can even buy them at school, through the School Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Stamps.

The U.S. Government guarantees that the cash value of your Bonds cannot drop; it can only grow. And if your Bonds should be lost, stolen, or destroyed, the Treasury will replace them free.

Finally, every Bond you buy does a big job for America. Because today peace costs money—money for military strength and for science; and money saved by individuals to keep our economy sound.

Your Bonds help provide this money—help America keep the peace. So, to build a brighter future for yourself and your family—and to protect it—save with U.S. Savings Bonds. They're better than ever.
